

Runaway Ears

Story and illustrations by Karina Kudymova

Once there was a girl whose ears ran away. She woke up one morning and they were gone! Apparently they had decided to go traveling.

She hurried away in search of them, and asked everyone she saw.

Then one man tells her, “No wonder. I once read that a nose ran off, and became a state senator!” When the girl began to cry, he said, “Here’s what we’ll do. I know exactly what ears like most. We’re going to lure them in!”

“I know!”, said the girl, “Ears like music!”

“No..”, chuckled the man, “Ears like compliments.” Then he grabbed a big microphone and said, “I once knew such wonderful ears! They were so great on a little girl, it looked like they were meant for each other! Oh, how beautiful those ears looked! They were some of the best listeners, and were so focused that not a single detail could be missed!”

Then the ears quickly came back, and the girl caught them in a flash.
